

Showcase Quilting

From the collection of: Mary W

A dear friend told me about a quilt shop I needed to see. I fell in love with their selection of batiks. Once I saw this pattern I knew it was perfect; it helped illustrate my memories of a trip I made with my brother to Hawaii. One of the trips many highlights was our visit to the pineapple fields.

I cut and pieced this quilt. It is the first quilt I made using a rotary cutter. It is also the first quilt that I ever had machine quilted. It was done by a woman in Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Over the years I had made many quilts but always did it the old fashioned way . . . but not any more.

Pattern: Pineapple Princess

The pattern is found in the book titled: Batiks and Beyond, by Laurie Shifrin "Quilts from Fabulous Fabrics".
